

Rights and Resources for Complainants of Sex-Based Harassment

Complainant's Rights

A Complainant is a student or an employee who is alleged to have been subjected to conduct that could constitute sex discrimination under Title IX during a time where they were participating or attempting to participate in LBCC's education program or activity at the time the alleged sex based harassment occurred. LinnBenton Community College has the responsibility to respond to complaints that come from either the Complainant or a third party member. The rights of the Complainant are to:

- File a complaint at the time of a report or in the future,
- Have their complaint addressed in a fair, impartial, and timely manner,
- Be treated with respect and without prejudice or presumption.
- Get information about and take advantage of campus support resources, safety planning, and supportive measures,
- Receive behavioral amnesty,
- Know the status of the complaint at any point in the process,
- Know the outcome of the investigation and the reasons for that outcome, in writing,
- Appeal the outcome of the resolution or grievance process,
- Be protected from retaliation,
- Have privacy and access to confidential services,
- Fully participate in any process,
- Have an advisor of choice. The advisor may accompany the complainant to administrative meetings and proceedings related to the resolution of a complaint, including interviews with the investigator. Please note, however, that generally an advisor is a support person and should not speak for the complainant during the administrative process.
- Receive assistance in filing a police report or file a criminal complaint, if they choose to do so,
- Receive information about evidence preservation.

Reporting Options

Anyone may make a report to the on-campus Title IX Coordinators, via the reporting website or by contacting the Title IX Coordinator directly. The Office of Public Safety can assist with making reports off-campus to law enforcement. You have the right to an education free from hostile environments and sex based harassment.
